Small laser engraving machines do not take up space, so there is a large market for DIY enthusiasts, customization and education markets. There are good and bad small laser engraving machines in the market, and the prices are high and low. The price of laser cutting machine is often determined by the laser tube brand, laser tube power, servo motor, laser head and other configurations. Of course, by default, the cheap system has fewer functions, low reliability, and the output quality cannot satisfy most people.

We remind you that when choosing laser equipment, you should first consider the actual needs, not the price. You need to know the material to be processed, the application method, the required quality, etc. in advance, in order to choose the most suitable laser equipment for you.
