1. Wear labor protective equipment according to the regulations, and wear protective glasses that meet the regulations near the laser beam.
2. Do not process a material before it is clear whether it can be irradiated or heated by laser, so as to avoid the potential danger of smoke and steam.
3. When the equipment is in operation, the operator is not allowed to leave the post without authorization or leave it to someone to take care of. If it is really necessary to leave, the operator should stop the machine or cut off the power switch.
4. When abnormalities are found during processing, stop the machine immediately, troubleshoot or report to the supervisor in time.
5. Keep the laser, the bed and the surrounding area clean, orderly and free of oil, and the workpieces, plates and waste materials should be piled up according to regulations. (The content is for reference only)
